Factoids:

Renelique was found guilty of medical malpractice, after he failed to show up for a late-term abortion in July 2006. The mother went into labor (because of drugs given to her by Renelique the day before) and unlicensed staff delivered a live baby girl. The baby was stuffed into a plastic bag and left to die. Police found her body a week later. Renelique's Florida license was revoked in 2009.

Renelique turned up a few months later working at a non-abortion clinic in the Bronx, New York, and was exposed on the evening news by a reporter, prompting news calls for the revocation of Renelique's New York license.
